

Accelerate Wealth from the Inside Out

Day 11: Effortless Ease Accepting the Gifts as They Come

Effortless ease is the state of being wherein you trust the flow of the Universe. In the process of manifestation, there is a natural balance between action and effortlessness. When we hold on to the reins of control in manifestation, we miss the opportunity to experience the effortless ease provided by our Divine co-pilot.

For right now, there is no right or wrong way to manifest - only your way. It is good to have a clear idea of where you are going, but the steps in the middle can easily be unknown and left in the hands of God. In this case, willingness needs to be present. The key to this style of manifesting is that you must recognize the opportunities as they are gifted to you then accept and receive them.

The Guy in the Storm

Remember the story about the guy in the storm? This fellow, 'Toni', is warned of impending disaster. He refuses to leave his home, saying, 'God will save me.'

As the storms progress towards this man's village, a police officer is sent out to the homes to warn the inhabitants of the need to vacate. Officer Jim comes to Toni's door and notifies him that his village is being evacuated. Toni's surprising response is, 'Thanks, Jim, but I believe in God's ability to save me. I trust God will protect me from the storms and rising flood waters. I will stay right here.' Officer Jim, seeing no possibility of persuading Toni to leave, goes on to assist others in their evacuation.

As the flood waters rise, the streets fill with rushing waters. The roads once held the opportunity for cars to pass. Now they had become channels where small motor boats pass through searching for people who have been left behind. Jackie, a rescue worker clad in rain gear and life jacket, spots movement in Toni's house and steers her small motor boat towards his front door. She shoots out to him, 'Hurry! There is still time to abandon your home and go to safety!' Again, Toni responds confidently, 'No my God will save me.'

As the day passes, the storms drop down torrential rains. Toni's home fills with filthy flood waters and he is forced out onto the roof of his house. As he perches on the roof a search and rescue helicopter approaches. A rope ladder drops from the helicopter, but Toni does not reach for it. He still holds firm to his idea that God will save him.

The flood waters rise up over the roof.

In the next scene from this story, Toni is standing at the pearly gates. He is confused and surprised about the situation. He asks to speak to St. Peter, then to speak to the Big Guy himself. Toni is given an audience and asked, 'Lord God, I showed you my complete faith and gave you all my trust. Why didn't you save me?'

God replied, 'My son, I sent Officer Jim, then Jackie, the rescue worker in a motor boat. Finally I sent you a rope ladder from the search and rescue helicopter. Honestly, Toni, you kept refusing my assistance. What else can I do?'

We started this lesson with effortless ease, inviting God to be our co-pilot. We end with the story of paying attention to the gifts and openings you are receiving in your everyday life!
